SCHOOL DISTRICT AND SUPERINTENDENT PROFILE

Littlestown Area School District (LASD) is a small, rural public school district located in southeastern Adams County. The district encompasses approximately fifty square miles and serves Littlestown, Union Township, Germany Township, a southern portion of Mount Pleasant Township and the eastern portion of Mount Joy Township and Bonneauville Borough.

The District enrolls 1,836 students, with a minority enrollment of 10% and economically disadvantaged of 25.8 %. Its elementary, middle, and high schools are all within walking distance of each other on the east side of Littlestown. Additional LASD information is available via the website <https://www.lasd.k12.pa.us/page/district>.

A survey recently completed by LASD professional, support, and administrative staff, and parents/guardians, and residents without children in the schools, overwhelmingly highlighted the District's support for students' learning and wellbeing, and community pride. They also value the staff's work ethic; the District's array of academic and vocational pathways and extracurricular activities; and their small, connected campus.

Imperative to the LASD Board of School Directors' selection is a leader who has the skills, knowledge, and dispositions to collaborate with the School Board, staff, and community to build upon these strengths, maintain a strong vision for students' learning and wellbeing, and move the District forward.

The Board of School Directors is offering a multiyear contract that features a regionally competitive compensation package with an estimated salary of $160,000, with additional consideration of superintendent experience, exceptional credentials, and achievements. Candidates must meet the legal requirements to be certified as a superintendent in Pennsylvania.

The window for applications opens on April 2, 2024, and the review process will begin shortly thereafter.
